Growing Our Community

Summary of the Project

The Growing Our Community project aimed to engage with community members and service providers to gather feedback about local aspirations and issues. This project was a vital element of a broader aim to identify the social priorities across the City's diverse suburbs to inform the optimum response by the City, the community and other stakeholders.

In addition to the community and service provider feedback, the following data sets contribute to the approach of identifying suburb-level social priorities:

- Demographic suburb-level data and other relevant data sets including Australian Bureau of Statistics, Australian Early Development Census, local crime statistics from the Western Australian Police, and data from the Department of Communities and local schools;
- Service provider insights via dedicated workshops; and
- Strategic insight from high level state government committees and groups.

The following report provides information about the qualitative data that was collected during the community engagement process. This information was gathered directly from residents and service providers and provides an indication of trends and unique insights into the views of residents living in each suburb in the City of Armadale.

Feedback was collected from residents between March and June 2019. Of 930 responses that were received, 464 were gathered at 10 engagement activities across eight of the City of Armadale suburbs. The remaining surveys were provided via an online survey available on the City's website. To gain insight from organisations working directly with community members, 59 responses were collected from Service Providers and Community Groups; this included 36 organisations who participated in the Service Provider feedback workshop.

An extensive marketing campaign including print media, social media and electronic mail outs. Over 30,000 fliers, posters and surveys were distributed during the data collection period.

Introduction

The City of Armadale (City) is one of the fastest growing local government areas in Australia. Not only is the population increasing rapidly, the demographic composition is also changing, and these changes differ across the 19 suburbs. The following report examines the City's demographic trends, which are captured in the 2011 and 2016 Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) Census collection. The ABS collected data on key characteristics of people across Australia on Census night. This report brings together key characteristics of the local population, in order to provide insights for service delivery planning for current and future communities.

Age Comparison

The City is located in Perth's south-east suburbs, 28 kms from the Perth CBD, and is one of Australia's fastest growing local government areas. The City spans 545 square kms which includes 19 suburbs and localities and 1431 hectares of parks and reserves. It is bounded by the local government areas of Gosnells, Kalamunda, York, Beverley, Wandering, Serpentine Jarrahdale, and Cockburn.

The City is an important Strategic Metropolitan Centre, with significant elements being delivered in partnership with the Metropolitan Redevelopment Authority. Over the next 20 years the City's population will almost double with infill and greenfield housing developments.

The City continues to benefit from a massive economic investment attracting new industrial and commercial businesses. Along with the economic investment the City is developing many new community facilities and infrastructure to meet the growing and changing community needs.

Boundaries

In 2017 Council completed a review of its ward representation boundaries and on 21 October 2017 the new ward boundaries took effect.

These changes include:

A seven (7) ward representation model was retained but with modified boundaries so that each ward has a councillor/ elector ratio that is within the required plus or minus 10% of the average councillor/elector ratio for the entire City. Each ward continues to have two (2) councillors, creating a total of fourteen (14) councillors. The Jarrah and Neerigen Wards were renamed to Hills and Ranford Wards respectively.

Suburbs and Localities

Although there are 19 suburbs and localities which make up the City of Armadale, (Ashendon, Bedforddale, Brookdale, Camillo, Champion Lakes, Forrestdale, Harrisdale, Haynes, Hilbert, Karragullen, Kelmscott, Lesley, Mount Nasura, Mount Richon, Piara Waters, Roleystone, Seville Grove and Wungong).

The following document groups some areas together and splits other areas. The reason for the grouping of some areas and splitting of others is simply because they are either linked or have distinct differences. Some suburbs have been excluded from this document. This is due to the fact that few responses were received from these areas.

The following report contains the data collected by both residents and service providers from the Growing Our Community engagement.
